

Course News April 2019

Spring is here and with favorable temps following earlier application of herbicide and fertilizer the course will soon be turning green again. The greens are in good condition having held their color through the winter. Greens are being mowed and mowing elsewhere as needed is underway soon to be more frequent. Gary and his staff have done a good deal of work clearing undergrowth and brush from areas outside of the roughs giving the course a “clean” look (and not so incidentally making it easier to locate a wayward ball).

Feel good – play the Creek!

A reminder ...it is a breach of etiquette to pull the ball from the hole using the head of your putter due to the likelihood that you will damage the hole thus making it difficult for those who follow to putt not to mention very annoying. It's a practice that is plainly bad for the cups and greens. The only exception, as it were, is if you may have a suction cup or four-prong attachment on your putter grip that will lift the ball cleanly from the hole without damaging the edges of the cups.

Also, now that the pin may be left in the hole when putting, retrieval of your ball with the pin in the hole may also damage the cup. A better practice is to gently remove the pin and then retrieve your ball. This will reduce the “doughnut” effect around the hole and keep the edges of the cups much sharper.

Work on the pavilion is nearing completion. Huge thanks to Greg Oates, Greg Pasco, Paul Hackett and Mickey Finn along with Gary and his crew for their outstanding work!

Thanks in advance to the many who have ordered commemorative bricks to adorn the patio section separations (partially distinguishable above) in the pavilion area. The brick order will be submitted the week of April 1st.

Masters Week begins April 7th – let’s welcome our guests! Speaking of which, tee times for member and guest play from April 7th through April 14th will be taken no earlier than one week in advance of the desired date of play, and tee times will be in effect for all play during the period. Normal group play will be accommodated using tee times.
